the 1990s, the number of people with a diagnosis of schizophrenia has increased in the United Kingdom (Meltzer 1998). The prevalence of schizophrenia in the United Kingdom is estimated to be 1.2% (Meltzer 1998).

There is a growing awareness of the need to improve the lives of people with mental health problems. The United Kingdom has a number of government departments and agencies that are responsible for the care of people with mental health problems. The Department of Health is responsible for the overall policy and strategy for the mental health services. The Department of Social Security is responsible for the provision of social security benefits to people with mental health problems. The Department of the Environment is responsible for the provision of housing and other services to people with mental health problems.

The National Health Service (NHS) is responsible for the provision of mental health services. The NHS is a public body that is funded by the government. The NHS is responsible for the provision of a wide range of services, including mental health services.

The Mental Health Act 1983 is the primary legislation governing the provision of mental health services in the United Kingdom. The Act sets out the powers of the courts and the powers of the Secretary of State. The Act also sets out the powers of the Mental Health Review Board.

The Mental Health Act 1983 is a complex piece of legislation. It is a long and detailed Act that covers a wide range of issues. The Act is divided into 11 parts. The first part of the Act sets out the powers of the courts and the powers of the Secretary of State. The second part of the Act sets out the powers of the Mental Health Review Board.

The third part of the Act sets out the powers of the Mental Health Review Board. The fourth part of the Act sets out the powers of the Mental Health Review Board. The fifth part of the Act sets out the powers of the Mental Health Review Board.

The sixth part of the Act sets out the powers of the Mental Health Review Board. The seventh part of the Act sets out the powers of the Mental Health Review Board. The eighth part of the Act sets out the powers of the Mental Health Review Board.

The ninth part of the Act sets out the powers of the Mental Health Review Board. The tenth part of the Act sets out the powers of the Mental Health Review Board. The eleventh part of the Act sets out the powers of the Mental Health Review Board.

The twelfth part of the Act sets out the powers of the Mental Health Review Board. The thirteenth part of the Act sets out the powers of the Mental Health Review Board. The fourteenth part of the Act sets out the powers of the Mental Health Review Board.

The fifteenth part of the Act sets out the powers of the Mental Health Review Board. The sixteenth part of the Act sets out the powers of the Mental Health Review Board. The seventeenth part of the Act sets out the powers of the Mental Health Review Board.

The eighteenth part of the Act sets out the powers of the Mental Health Review Board. The nineteenth part of the Act sets out the powers of the Mental Health Review Board. The twentieth part of the Act sets out the powers of the Mental Health Review Board.

The twenty-first part of the Act sets out the powers of the Mental Health Review Board. The twenty-second part of the Act sets out the powers of the Mental Health Review Board. The twenty-third part of the Act sets out the powers of the Mental Health Review Board.

The twenty-fourth part of the Act sets out the powers of the Mental Health Review Board. The twenty-fifth part of the Act sets out the powers of the Mental Health Review Board. The twenty-sixth part of the Act sets out the powers of the Mental Health Review Board.

The twenty-seventh part of the Act sets out the powers of the Mental Health Review Board. The twenty-eighth part of the Act sets out the powers of the Mental Health Review Board. The twenty-ninth part of the Act sets out the powers of the Mental Health Review Board.

The thirtieth part of the Act sets out the powers of the Mental Health Review Board. The thirty-first part of the Act sets out the powers of the Mental Health Review Board. The thirty-second part of the Act sets out the powers of the Mental Health Review Board.

Individualism, a role played by everyone through all phases of his life which sets him apart from others. Whether being involved with helping people, yearning to display talents, or just being one's self, everyone has his own means of self-expression. Each person, young or old, wants to prove that he alone, as a unique character, has value and a purpose in life. This is why everyone needs recognition from others while expressing himself in his own manner. The best way of demonstrating distinctness is through self-expression. That is why each man chooses his own path to follow, his own beat of . . .

A Different Drum

DIFFERENT IDEALS do not form a barrier in communication for D. Markovich and F. Livingston as they discuss world wide problems.

VOLUNTEERING HER SERVICES, junior P. Frisk finds helping people a rewarding experience. She aids Special Ed. student L.

Towney by writing out her assignments. Pupils also pushed these students in wheelchairs to lunch.

WITH PATIENCE AND CARE junior Mark Harwood spends his time with a young girl, assisting her to learn the basic fundamentals of swimming. Teaching children ages two through five, Mark utilizes his individual time and talent at the Scott Middle School pool helping many youngsters to overcome their fear and grow accustomed to the water.

BEFORE, JUST STRANGERS in a crowd, this couple, Mark LaBuda and Ruth Reinhardt, have come to know each others unique ideas and feelings. Sometimes experiencing love is the only way one can see how wonderful different people are.

HOPING FOR THEIR RETURN many Morton students wear POW bracelets in memory of missing soldiers.

TO CHOOSE THE RIGHT MAN for the job Rhonda McCormick joins other 18 year olds to vote in 1972 elections.

Some people do not wish to engage in activities that directly involve them. So, many individuals, eager to express themselves, become active in things around them as a group, thus revealing their distinctive differences by participating with others. Even though with people concerned with school or community projects or with those who back the team by coming to the games, each person stands alone in a group "as one." Like a blanket of snow, each flake is unique in structure, yet all the flakes cover the ground. So is it with our lives. Each of us contributes our own special qualities to make up the entire human race. Joined with others, yet single in a mass, we follow our own heartbeats to a different drum.

WITH AN IDEA IN MIND P. Sikora makes her suggestions for the Prom while some discuss those already given.

INDIVIDUALS UNITED TOGETHER display their interest in school spirit by boosting the team's morale.

COMPARING RARE STAMPS to his own collection, F. Gasparovic finds he has one more to add to his book.

Student hobbies help promote individuality

Choosing to use their leisure time productively, many students engaged in different diversions. Some pupils picked hobbies aimed towards enjoyment, others selected ones to help them in the future or to develop better physical fitness.

While some girls took up the art of yoga, boys did weight lifting exercises. Both practices toned the muscles and aided many in sports and appearance. However, these often lead students to strenuous and sometimes awkward positions.

Peeling stamps off letters from around the world or checking for rare dates on coins occupied some collectors' time. With luck, many found valuable pieces to sell or add to collections.

Pleasurable hobbies such as ceramics and painting developed imaginations. Turning to an unusual pastime, a few students soared into the wild blue yonder by taking flying lessons.

Fascination of the sound of a purring motor caused many boys to busily delve into car engines, hoping to improve mechanical talents.

No matter what type of hobby an individual chose to devote his time to, each displayed his uniqueness to himself and those around him.

BRIGHT COLORS enhance Mary Kay Chaney's statues as she colors the ceramic pieces before final baking.

READY FOR TAKE OFF junior D. Potts gets the feel of the pilot seat while studying the instrument panel.

IN A CREATIVE MOOD, M. Molodet paints an album cover of one of his favorite singers, Cat Stevens.

GREASY HANDS do not bother senior John Kiraly as he "tinkers" with his car's engine during spare hours.

Students obtain knowledge through institutes

I.U. INSTITUTORS— M. Ladendorf, D. Thorne, T. Prange, J. Josway, D. Hurr, K. Clyne, M. Komar and L. Lelito prepare for the following year by taking classes during the summer. Courses included leadership, photography and journalism.

PROUD TO BE CHOSEN drum majorettes, Judy Hays and Sandy Dietzman happily await this year's band activities.

DIATOMS AND LECTURES occupied senior Karen Wilson's time as she spent eight weeks at I.U. institute .

TRAVELING MANY MILES, Section Editors—FRONT ROW: N. Rex. SECOND ROW: C. Babinec, J. Chovanec, L. Leitto. STANDING: M. Longawa attended Kent and Ripon Institutes.

UNUSUAL EXPERIENCES shared among Girls' State representatives Terry Prange, Stacy Lovin and Lynn Miskovich become the topic of discussion during their free periods.

TO LEARN PRINCIPLES in state and national government, Boys' State representatives Greg Hill, Mark Ladendorf, Tom Payonk, Mark Peters, Steve LaPosa and Jim Josway stayed at I.S.U. for one informative week during summer vacation.

HIGH MARKS on the National Merit Scholarship Test achieve Letters of Commendation for N. Salka and M. Stark.

STANDING PROUD, Mr. Basketball, senior Dave Rush, reflects the past season and contemplates the future.

Excitement mounts as students design floats

October 20, the date of the 1972 homecoming, stealthily moved closer and closer, until finally it arrived. From the making of the first tissue flower to the candidate assembly, where the nominees told of their future plans to help voters choose this year's queen, excitement grew as school spirit engulfed many students and faculty.

For several weeks interested juniors and seniors busily involved themselves preparing their individual floats. As the procession deadline drew nearer students worked vigorously, wishing they had more time to finish their creations.

Beginning at 6 p.m., the parade proceeded through the Hessville area. Due to the low temperatures, the homecoming court and other participants shivered in the frigid cold.

Announcing Miss Bonnie Fowler as homecoming queen and Morton's defeat over Gavitt warmed the hearts of many. A dance, featuring "Wild Wood," honored the queen and ended the day's gaiety.

AFTER MUCH HARD WORK to complete the float on time, the senior's creation "Their Goose Is Cooked" stands ready.

FLASHING EYES arouse much attention as the junior's dragon makes its way through the parade route.

HOMECOMING CANDIDATES and escorts— Joan White, Mark Molodet, Pat Sandor, Scott Taylor, Paula Luketic, Tim Arvay, queen Bonnie Fowler, Dan Ostojic, Ruth Locke, Bill Cochran, Fred Gasparovic, Janet Stephens, Ken Bobos, Cathy Couch.

FAST AND POPULAR MUSIC create an enjoyable atmosphere for junior P. Collins and alumnus D. Toth.

RELAXING A MOMENT from the dancing enables junior J. DeWitt and soph N. Purnea to enjoy some punch.

CREPE PAPER streamers and music performed by "Amazing Grace" enliven the cafeteria for couples attending the annual Inaugural Ball.

Association announces assemblies, Inaugural

To give pupils a winter semi-formal the Student Association changed the traditional Inaugural November date to December 16, 1972. Depicting the theme "Together We Can Unite the World," globes imprinted with continents decorated tables.

Assemblies geared to both delight and enlighten students filled many second and sixth hours. In addition to pep rallies for MHS teams an annual Christmas assembly melodically illustrated the yuletide spirit with its seasonal songs.

During national elections a special auditorium session enabled pupils to understand each parties' platform. By asking representatives numerous questions students decided which of the presidential nominees they would have voted for.

Future plans told by homecoming candidates gave pupils an opportunity to know the nominees better. Slides of the seven girls were shown.

Inaugural Assembly 1972 proved disappointing due to the lack of viewers. During the evening President M. Ladendorf spoke for many, "Uniting the world can be a goal instead of a dream."

AFTER BEING SWORN IN, Assoc. Pres. M. Ladendorf reads the oaths of office to D. Thorne and T. Prange.

Gazebo, fountain accent 'Parisenne Fantasy'

With the little odds and end of decorating completed, workers hurried home to prepare for the big event in whatever time they had left. The day, May 12, was filled with hours of car washings, picking up tuxedos, fixing hair and looking extra special . . . the night promised an unforgettable time at the 1972-73 junior-senior prom.

As couples entered the ballroom at St. Michael's Hall in Hammond, they crossed a flowery bridge into a "Parisenne Fantasy," the evening's theme. Murals placed on the walls depicted various sights in France. Situated under canopies, iron tables covered with red and white checkered tablecloths gave a sidewalk cafe effect. Eiffel tower candles, distributed to guests, served as souvenirs.

Soft and romantic music floated through the air as couples danced to "George Addams and the Dynamics Band," which performed in a quaint gazebo. Gathered about a circular fountain, some promgoers chatted while others watched glistening goldfish dart in the water beneath the bridge.

All this became a prelude to the after-prom party sponsored by the juniors' parents at San Remo's restaurant in Griffith. Couples ate dinner and "grooved" to the music of "Heritage." As three a.m. arrived the last social event of the school year ended, leaving many with fond memories.

CHERISHED MEMORIES linger in the minds of T. Payonk and C. Magurnay as they return from their last prom.

STARTING EARLY, senior Ken Bobos begins a day's preparation for the prom by diligently washing his car.

INTENT ON A NEW STYLE senior Paula Morey, as many other girls do, creates her dream dress for the prom.

BETWEEN DANCES junior J. Wimmer straightens senior T. Bocken's boutonniere to help him look his best.

RUFFLES AND CURLS adorn Lucy Ando as she quietly swings while awaiting the arrival of her prom date.

AROUSING SPIRIT, "Lil Governor" Ken Ballor leads the fans with cheers at the sectional game against Clark.

SPIRIT HEADS— FRONT ROW: G. Costa, J. Davey, D. Markovich, A. Essary, L. Olney, M. Argadine. BACK ROW: T. Costa,

C. Rubin reveal the amount of money each received from their class. Each collector wore an original costume.

Elected Spirit Heads collect for charity funds

Normally walls stood covered with posters at sectional time . . . this year they were not. However, pupils showed spirit in other ways.

Joining together, students displayed school pride by giving to the March of Dimes and Lake County Association for the Retarded charities. Both organizations received equal amounts. Each class chose two representatives they felt had the most class spirit to collect the donations.

Not forgetting the team, many enthusiastic pupils watched the Gavs play their first and last sectional game of the season against Clark. Maximum effort exhibited by many team members proved insufficient as they went down in defeat.

For the second year Morton continued its policy of having a student exchange program. Specially appointed pupils escorted their guests about the school explaining the various facilities.

With few students participating, the third annual bike race offered little competition. Despite the blistering heat, those pupils who did enter strove to capture whatever trophies they could.

ANGERED BY DEFEAT, sophomore Joe Dinelli ponders over thoughts of improvement for next year's race.

DETERMINED TO WIN, junior Harold Fross anxiously speeds on to finish first in the third annual bike race. Sponsored by the Student Association during the summer, the contest helped to raise money for upcoming activities.

Theatrical plays portray imagination, realism

Butterflies fluttered in the stomachs of cast members as they nervously chewed their gum before the production began. The last few minutes provided just enough time to go over lines which took weeks to memorize. Frantically, places were taken on the stage as the curtain slowly rose.

On November 16 and 18 the Top Hat Theatre presented the play "Dracula." Blood-curdling screams and mysterious looking characters transformed the auditorium into an eerie chamber. As the play progressed many in the audience wondered who would be the next victim of the night stalker.

Tooth brushes hanging around necks helped students promoting and selling tickets for the play "The Skin of Our Teeth." This production, given on March 2 and 3, centered around the Antrobus family and the hard times in their life where they just made it by "the skin of their teeth."

Juvenile giggles echoed through the auditorium as area children chose seats and gathered to watch "The Clown Prince of Wanderlust." Sponsored by the Alpha Gamme-Pi Epsilon Kappa sorority, the play portrayed the tale of a princess who would not laugh. The hero becomes a man dressed as a peppermint stick who greatly amuses the girl and wins her heart as well. After the actors' final bows, youngsters trampled out of MHS. Many could be heard saying, "the part I liked best was . . ."

ALL KNOWING a gypsy (J. Austin) predicts the future to the Antrobus family in "The Skin of Our Teeth."

FINALLY HOME a soldier (J. Karney) receives a warm welcome from his wife (S. Bar-doczi), daughter (K. Skorupa) and the maid (D. Nelson) as he comes back from the war.

TIRED OF EATING spiders and flies, Renfield (K. Lauerman) looks to Lucy (S. Lovin) for a larger catch.

WITH THE USE OF HYPNOTIC POWERS Count Dracula (Rick Halton) lures another victim into his clutches as he seeks to quench his unending thirst for blood.

UNDECIDED ABOUT HER FUTURE, a newly graduated student ponders the alternatives of life.

Graduates reminisce past Morton activities

Seniors assembled together for the last time in the gymnasium on June 7, 1973. This day marked the end of high school life for 457 individuals who were overcome with mixed emotions.

Many students, especially early graduates, felt the joy of leaving Morton as they looked ahead to new opportunities which awaited them. Tears swelled many pupils' eyes as they bid farewell to friends. No matter how each person felt, all recollected their years of activities at Morton.

Thinking back, seniors reminisced about their evening at the Senior Banquet in the school cafeteria. Music which provided the entertainment came alive again as pupils recalled their last get-together dancing and chatting with friends.

Different activities, such as Teen Angel Day, sports events, tests, hardships and joy, all seemed to flash before their very eyes.

Attention soon reverted to reality as the speeches of Mike Nowacki, valedictorian, and Kathy Boutcher, salutatorian, echoed in their ears.

Yes, the seniors had worked for this last event for the past four years. Graduation will always hold a special place in their hearts.

WHILE EXCITEMENT CLIMBS to a fevered pitch almost graduated pupils try to disregard the lack of air conditioning in the gymnasium. Fidgeting in their seats the seniors listen to final speeches given by class leaders.

COMBINING IDEAS help senior sponsors, Mrs. Squibb and Mr. Zelenke, to prepare a memorable graduation.

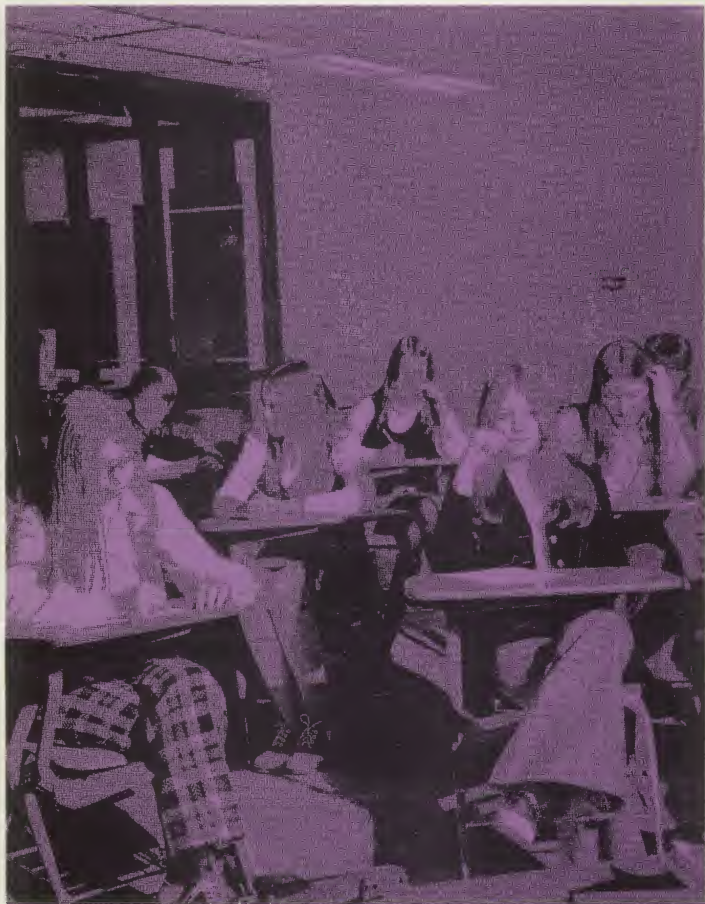

MIXED EMOTIONS come over N. Katic and D. Kolisz as they bid farewell to one another after graduation.

ONE BY ONE graduating seniors proceed into the gymnasium where the key to their future, a diploma, awaits them. For many graduation means the beginning of a different lifestyle with challenges yet to be encountered.

While Kerry Holmquist works steadily on a test others, including Teri White, find only difficulties.

After outwitting her opponent, Sandy Handley exhibits a smile of confidence as she presents her views in a mock debate.

Preparing for a rebuttal, Joe Greer decides upon the right tactics to strengthen his side of the argument.

Academics

Each school day students attend their various classes to acquire knowledge about a particular subject. Although each person is learning something as a part of a whole group it is up to the individual to absorb that knowledge and put it to work or let it remain unused. This can be exemplified by a person striving for a perfect grade while another may choose to do very little or no work. Some pupils wish to gear their interest outside of school. Each person has his own abilities and some express theirs through academics.

Staying after school gives G. Minchuk and D. Brennan enough time to work on extra credit experiments.

ASSORTED ROCKS pose a problem for juniors J. Ritter, B. McDillon and J. Anderson as they make calculated guesses as to their identity in the new Earth Science class.

MINERAL BREAKDOWN requires junior Barbara Cox to use a Bunsen burner to complete her experiment.

WITH ETHER READY, P. McCree, J. Stevens and J. Dale prepare to ease the fears of a rat before dissection.

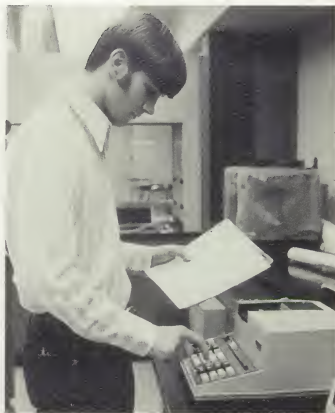

Earth Science informs pupils about geology

In the new Earth Science class pupils could be seen "playing" with sand or examining rocks. Fossils and map studies aided students in understanding the geological features of the earth. En route to the Thornton quarry in southern Indiana, pupils studied the formation of rocks and mineral specimens which aided them in research work.

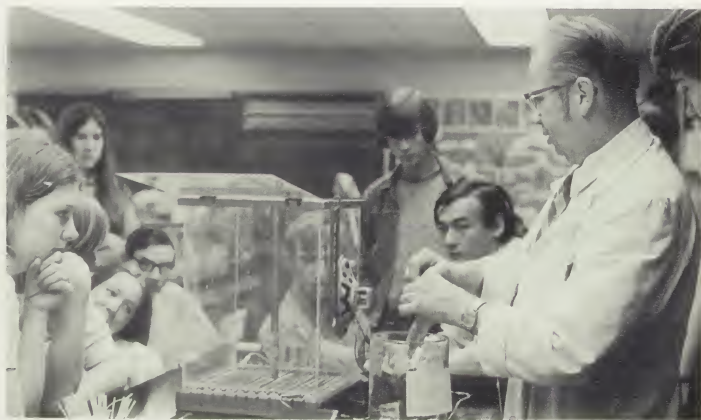

Conditioning a mouse at the sound of a loud noise enthused some biology students. Many labs and a few field trips made up the entirety of the class. Microscopes and lab notebooks made biology students' work easier. Studying life under a microscope thrilled some students as they carefully drew pictures and wrote up their findings.

Since many chemistry experiments involved a lot of mathematical reasoning, a new calculator helped students to obtain correct answers.

Dissecting different animals and learning the functions of their parts became the main project of Zoology class. The scent of formaldehyde or ether could be smelled throughout the science department as different operations took place.

ASSISTED BY A CALCULATOR, junior Gary Kolodziej finds it easy to obtain correct Formulas in chemistry.

TRIAL AND ERROR procedures prove a success as Mr. J. Rasmussen demonstrates conditioning techniques for white mice.

Each student receives a mouse which must accomplish various tasks after repeated courses of training.

Typing, brief forms frustrate business students

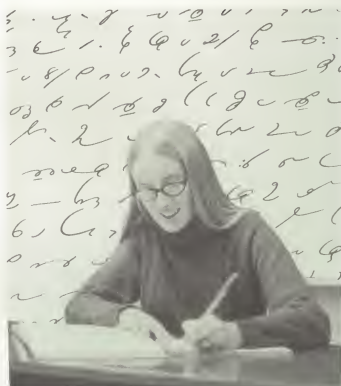

Struggling through brief form tests and transcribing shorthand homework daily aided in boosting the grades of business class students. The shorthand student speedily matched brief forms with words while the beginning typing student had to associate the typewriter keys with each corresponding finger. Although frustrated at times, students pushed onward, attempting to obtain a higher speed in typing, writing or transcribing shorthand.

Students who desired a business career took courses in bookkeeping, notehand, stenography, clerical practice, or business law to acquire knowledge for future use at home or on the job.

Motivated toward college, students enrolled in necessary math classes. Algebra 1 started off the freshmen while an advanced class in analysis finished four years of math for seniors.

Protractors and compasses could often be seen in geometry classes throughout the day. Writing proofs and the use of specific instruments became necessary to construe problems. The biggest task to some geometry pupils consisted of memorizing postulates, theorems, rules and many correct forms.

Since every student has different abilities and skills, a basic and general study of mathematics could be substituted for the more advanced levels to help an individual in his adult life.

DILIGENTLY WORKING, junior C. Grimmer prepares for a timed brief form test given in Shorthand 1 Classes.

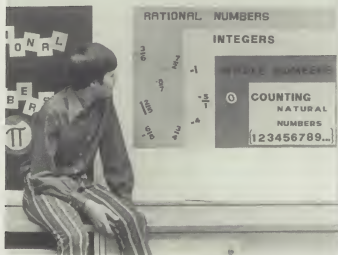

USE OF THE COMPTOMETER helps Senior Pam Farmer exercise proper business skills learned in clerical practice.

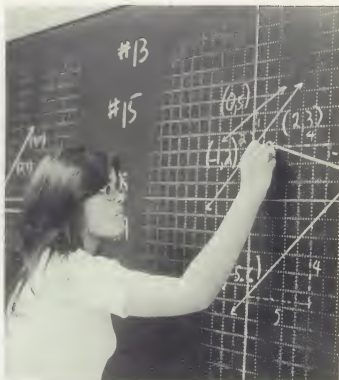

INSERTING THE PAPER into her typewriter, junior Claudia Jakov sets out to type the day's lesson.

AL NUMBERS

SUBSETS OF REAL NUMBERS exhibited on the Algebra I bulletin board aid freshman B. Olson before a test.

TO DETERMINE THE SLOPE, junior Rose Domsic plots the given points in the hope of solving her problem.

Math courses furnish knowledge for college

PRINCIPLES learned in Geometry I becomes the topic of discussion for sophomore Ed Pugh. Explanations aided class members in figuring out proofs.

Comp. classes create tales with illustrations

Compositions written for a child's vocabulary became one project for Comp. 8 students. These original stories, compiled into three books for Beatty Memorial, St. Margaret's and St. Catherine's hospitals, added to the children's enjoyment.

To help the class feel the atmosphere of ancient times, posters, wooden ships and clay projects set a mythological mood for freshmen English students. Reading and studying Shakesperian plays gave pupils a new perspective in literature.

Terrifying moments existed for some sophomores as they nervously headed for the podium to deliver their speeches. After many attempts, pupils became comfortable in front of an audience.

To meet English Department requirements junior English students worked frantically to compile a term paper. With proofreading and the placing of last minute adjustments, pupils breathed a sigh of relief at the completion of their papers.

Hoping to make the yearbook or newspaper staff, some journalism students tried diligently to write creative stories, headlines and captions.

ANOTHER FACE IN THE NEWS, soph Mary Treen searches the paper in hopes of finding a needed article.

PROJECTS displayed in English I class set mythological mood. T. Hansen and P. Meier explain their creations.

WITH HIS PROUD POSSESSION, senior Dave Vince explains the safety features of his motorcycle.

FILLED WITH DETERMINATION, junior Kevin Oros scans the index files searching for term paper resources.

WILD IMAGES, designed by senior Steve Rusher, enable him to illustrate his story.

ENGROSSED IN COURT PROCEDURES, attorney Dave Rush informs the judge, Debbie Orahoad, and defendant Jim Leggit the verdict decided by the jury. The government class wrote and presented this project in the small auditorium.

DAILY CLASS LESSONS projected on the wall aided students to visualize locations and sizes of foreign lands. Pupils copied this material and other essential information into required notebooks in order to pass the course.

CHECKING THE UPS AND DOWNS of the stock exchange, senior P. Moery jots down the daily averages.

Government students portray court sessions

"This court will come to order" resounded the judge as the make believe trial commenced. Reenacting court procedures in the small auditorium familiarized Government class students with the behavior and actions that occur during a trial.

Reading through newspaper stock exchanges at first bewildered some Economic pupils. With careful study the meaning for all the numbers became understandable, encouraging pupils to think about their future plans for investing money.

Printed material and notes viewed from a projector grasped the interest of some geography students. This method made it easier for pupils to label maps and find small unknown countries.

Going back in time, World History pupils traveled through the depths of many adventuring time periods. Starting out with prehistoric mummies and ending with astronauts rocketing off to the moon covered the big achievements man has made since the beginning of civilization. Students constructed projects depicting earlier historical events.

DIFFERENCES OF OPINION cause seniors Tom Payonk and John Lauer to engage in a heated argument over contemporary issues. Various economic situations stimulated class participation as students probed for their answers.

REARRANGING HER WORK senior Lynette Wildermuth sculpts human-like figures with plaster of Paris over a wire armature.

DEEP IN CONCENTRATION, junior P. Smith prepares to touch up her creation with an application of paint.

STICKY FINGERS pose a problem for frosh Cathy Hladek as she tries to arrange her project.

WITH EXTREME CAUTION senior Glenn Ross pours the plaster mixture into one of the prepared molds.

Art students establish individualism in work

To each his own represents the theme for art class assignments. Students strived to express their uniqueness as clay took on many different and interesting forms. The personalities of the pupils reflected in their work as individual interests became apparent in the finished projects.

Students learned the basic principle of a keen eye and a steady hand as they transformed masses of clay on armatures into human figures and chiseled animals from blocks of plaster. Causing messy fingers plaster of Paris eventually took on various shapes as pupils carefully poured the mixture into different molds. After removing each one, students discovered the amazing transformation that occurred.

Unity and harmony became the main idea behind collages. Single pictures expressed personal thoughts and ideas. Finished projects were painted and then mounted on the wall for display.

In order to place the special final touches on their creations, pupils learned the proper use of shading and color coordination. Correct technique usage created the desired effects on work.

AWAITING APPROVAL, sophomore Nancy Arvay listens to Mr. Waring's comments on her sculpture.

Girls' Chorus receives honors in Indianapolis

Practice made perfect as the choral singers traveled to different places in the community. Singing for concerts or for a contest sparked the interest of some music pupils. A variety of songs could be heard when passing the music rooms.

Choral singers exhibited their work by achieving a perfect score at the Indianapolis contest. For community listeners the Girls Ensemble sang a variety of tunes on a WJOB broadcast.

Performing an array of marching maneuvers, the band displayed different formations. Tunes of today and yesteryear were executed to entertain spectators at the football games played at home.

Holiday decorations livened the atmosphere of German classes throughout the year. Christmas trees, valentines and shamrocks set the mood with a German accent. Detective stories written in this language added some suspense for the advanced classes.

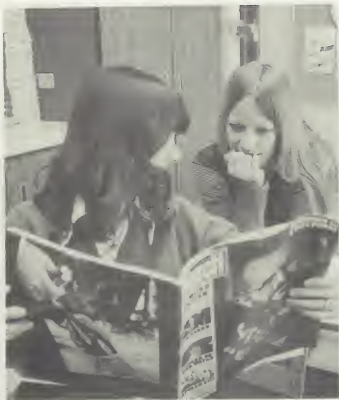

Reading novels such as "Don Quixote" and other books in the Spanish language furnished students with an insight into this literature. Yuletide hymns sung by French and Spanish students filled the air with the Christmas spirit. French classes traveled to exquisite restaurants to acquaint themselves with a variety of French foods.

JOYFULLY SINGING, members of Concert Choir practice new melodies as they learn more about music.

IMPROVEMENT becomes an important goal of soph Bob Skertic as he carefully practices his music to prepare for a contest.

"ON TO FRESHNESS" exclaims sophomore Kathy Alexander as she presents her speech in German class.

SPARE TIME allows sophomore French students B. Philips and K. Balog to browse through a "Match" issue.

Foreign language classes celebrate holidays

BLINDFOLDED, freshman Fernando Vela attempts to break a pinata which will bring him many surprises and tasty goodies.

PROUD OF REACHING THE TOP, Freshman Joy Baker quickly slides down the rope to await her final grade.

INTENT ON PERFECTION, freshman Laura Klemm manipulates a kick board to condition her muscles.

WITH A COMBINED EFFORT, freshmen J. Guzls and R. Sperka follow through with their returns.

Various gym routines tone unused muscles

Getting right into the groove, gym students developed their physical skill by participation in swimming, gymnastics, basketball, and volleyball. The course also included many body building activities and routines for better health.

Executing a multitude of daring stunts on gymnastic equipment aroused much attention. Some pupils stumbled off the parallel bars and balancing beam, but most of them had the will to get back up. Time, practice and imagination helped students to perform that "perfect routine."

Developing muscles, learning new techniques of diving and finally getting into the water exasperated a few gym students. Mastering new strokes and swimming the necessary laps enabled swimmers to receive certificates from the Red Cross.

With the help of the gym instructors and individual resolution, tennis players managed to perfect serving and returning drills. Playing on exceptionally nice days during the spring and fall, students could be seen retrieving balls that had been wacked into the marshy weeds near the courts.

With the will to win, some volleyball players used teamwork, skills and techniques to defeat their opponents. Jumps of joy expressed the reactions of teammates after a successful match.

SUSPENDED IN AIR, freshman R. Gibbs executes a front drop for his spotter, S. Vermajan.

"UP, UP AND AWAY" exemplifies freshman Allen Sherron's form as he follows through to complete a dive.

QUICKLY SEWING, senior Sandie Szmuto places final touches on seams, completing her outfit.

ENTANGLED THREAD presents a problem for senior Wanda Singleton while she works on her clothing project.

TEAMWORK COUNTS, as seniors Jennifer Rose and Judy Kollish attempt to make yummy chocolate chip cookies.

PLEASED WITH THEIR WORK, senior D. DeBarge and sophomore P. Thurman prepare noodles for foods.

Home Nursing assists students in child care

Home Nursing introduced students into a new phase of Home Economics. Pupils ventured from regular courses and branched into a new field of study. Prenatal care became a topic of discussion. Reviews on diet deficiencies resulted in students becoming aware of eating a more balanced diet.

Sewing I classes initiated pupils to the basics of sewing. Beginning with A-line skirts the class later designed dresses with fitted bodices. Personal hygiene and grooming added a personal touch to the course. Students picked up tips on hairstyles, make-up and a refresher course in manners.

Advanced sewing methods presented pupils with more complex projects. Three piece suits required students to put their basic knowledge to work. Skill and determination combined with patience resulted in a well constructed garment.

Learning from mistakes, many pupils started their recipes over and over. Setting a table to fit a particular mood lead students to discuss proper etiquette. Practice made perfect as some pupils developed talents to become culinary geniuses.

TENDER LOVING CARE displayed by seniors Debi Wozniczka and Jill Stewart exhibits the basic fundamentals in child care.

Students in Home Nursing covered first aid, prenatal care and nutritious food menus for the sick.

QUICK MOVEMENTS enable senior Randy Randhan to test circuits in electronics as junior Kevin Heins records the data.

Students learned the proper techniques of wiring household appliances to save on costly electric bills.

FINAL ADJUSTMENTS by juniors Dennis Wells and Dave Brandenburg make the motor run like a charm.

PRECISION COUNTS as junior Bruce McCallister exerts the use of a steady hand in welding two pieces into one.

Shop classes operate various types of tools

Contact with machines and its power becomes unavoidable in this mechanical age. Thus, to increase their knowledge, shop students acquainted themselves with the use of tools and equipment.

Noise echoed through the halls while metal shop pupils operated grinders and buffers. Practicing welding pieces of metal together helped students construct uniquely designed projects.

Working on intricate parts found in cars provided power mechanic pupils to gain the ability to seek jobs at neighborhood gas stations.

Since electricity plays a big part of everyone's life, electronics students studied the wiring of different appliances and machines.

Wood shop introduced students to a field of construction. Shaving wood to make a jar or fitting boards to meet precise measurements describes just a few of the many individual projects.

Accurate blueprints drawn by the use of slide rulers enabled mechanical drawing students to come up with copies of architectural lay outs. Preciseness counted in all phases of work.

ANGLES AND MEASUREMENTS produce a worthwhile effect as senior Jeff DeLau checks for any mistakes.

Involvement

More and more students at Morton have become involved in activities which appeal to their interests. New clubs which enabled pupils to reveal talents or to do something worthwhile attracted many members. Though some older clubs kept pace with newer organizations, each needed one basic factor . . . individuals working together. In order to enjoy many activities in a particular club funds must be obtained through the efforts of all members. Thus individual ideas and group action resulted in school organization involvement.

Happy to have another customer, S. Bardozi sells a ticket to L. Smith for the play, "The Skin of Our Teeth."

Students change Inaugural assembly custom

To present the '73 Inaugural Assembly, Association officers decided on a new time. Usually held during school hours, the assembly was changed to the evening so students from other schools and parents could view the swearing in of all student government officers and representatives.

Obtaining ample funds through bake sales replenished the treasury and allowed executive officers to attend the Leadership Institute.

Morton's student government collected again this year for the United Way Drive during homeroom and lunch hours. Many area schools have discontinued this practice of helping the needy.

Because of the expense of the Inaugural Ball, the Association officers and sponsor decided to sell candles to acquire additional funds. Sweet and spicy scents permeated through the halls as students walked to classes with their purchases.

Homeroom competition heightened with Morton's second annual basketball tournament sponsored by the Association. New rules, set up by the committee members, disqualified all January graduates.

Officers from each organization received certificates recognizing their work at the Leadership Banquet. This event, which ended the school year, enabled active club members to attend.

Society requires high rank, good character

By putting forth effort to attain superior scholastic achievement, juniors in the top five percent and seniors in the top ten percent of their classes qualified for membership in the National Honor Society. Besides having achieved high scholastics, students received nomination through involvement in school activities and faculty references.

Practicing individual projects helped members of the National Forensic League perfect troublesome speeches. Before entering contests many strove to reduce their mistakes by carefully studying notes. To test their skills against a variety of individuals, club members competed against different schools. This year the National Forensic League, after participating in many contests, has compiled enough points to receive a three-year charter.

Students interested in foreign cultures, in relation to their own, formed the Foreign Language Club. Sponsoring an international dinner, club participants expressed feelings for their nationality by making foreign foods and providing entertainment. Visiting the display "Christmas Around the World" at the Museum of Science and Industry enabled students to view the customs of other nations.

Guest speakers discuss scientific experiments

Some of the activities of this year's science clubs included purchasing new equipment and inviting guest speakers from all fields.

Arriving from Indiana University Professor Hanks reported to the Chemistry Club about genetics. Professor Prince spoke on pollution and Professor Dustman reviewed "Geology in the Calumet Region." Members held a dance and a bake sale in order to purchase a program calculator which all Chemistry classes used to work out assignments.

Preparing a bowling program took up much time for the Physics Club. Sponsored by Dr. El Naggar, members accepted students from all classes to participate in this activity. Every Sunday afternoon for a month, students tried their skills at bowling in a tournament which awarded trophies to all. Members held a car wash to raise money for a banquet in the spring. Selected students received achievement awards from a guest physician.

Learning about X-rays and how they are read involved the Zoology Club. Mrs. Wirth, an anesthetist, informed members of the correct way to administer ether. Mr. Rasmussen, sponsor, gave a demonstration of taxidermy by using a chicken hawk. Class projects, such as operations and cat dissections, continued into club time after school.

Staff represents students when judging year

In a crowded room people worked separately at writing headlines, captions, copy and drawing layouts. Everyone expressed their own ideas and discovered a freedom of expression a high school student can seldom find anywhere else. Because of this the Top Hat became a unique experience to all who helped produce it. Each staff member portrayed the Morton he saw and tried to represent the student body when judging the year through his eyes.

Various summer institutes proved to be one way to learn yearbook know-how. Eight staff members put aside summer plans to attend these.

Constant pressure placed on staff members meant a year of time-consuming work. Section editors entered a deserted school during Christmas vacation to keep up with the editor's demand for finished work. Frustrated staffers tried to compile their section to avoid missing deadlines.

All work and no play would make a dull staff so for variety they had a Christmas party. Will staff members ever forget the real reward for putting out a yearbook and the fun they had all year around . . . throwing the editor in the waste basket . . . hearing cats in the walls . . . talking all hour instead of doing work . . . and last, but not least, driving Mrs. Stock utterly insane?

Staff provides school with bi-weekly paper

Trying to publish a bi-weekly newspaper within an allotted time period caused confusion in the Mortonite room. Disgusted staff members sat back and attempted to revise their copy while disappointed reporters saw some of their headline stories shortened and placed on the third page.

Mortonite staff members slightly changed the paper's format this year by placing more emphasis on world wide news such as political rallies, elections, and drugs while presenting critiques on music and plays. Because of a new printing process, offset, more pictures have also been added.

Attending a two week Journalism Institute at Indiana University in Bloomington, assistant editor Donna Hurr and editor Jim Josway gained new ideas in copy writing and layout design, while photographer Kevin Clyne learned camera techniques. For his institute work Jim received a first place award and two honorable mentions.

By covering school activities and special issues of concern the Mortonite staff hopes to have a successful paper and obtain the Quill and Scroll, Columbia and National Scholastic Press Association's top ratings as in previous years.

Clubs tempt students with cakes, taffy apples

Tempting Morton students with cakes, candies and taffy apples through bake sales helped F.T.A., History, Home Ec and Ecology Clubs earn extra money for field trips and general expenses.

Traveling to elementary schools, F.T.A. members viewed different teaching methods while becoming better acquainted with the proper educational atmosphere for younger students. To do something special for each teacher members held a Teacher Appreciation Week before Easter vacation when teachers received flowers and apples every day.

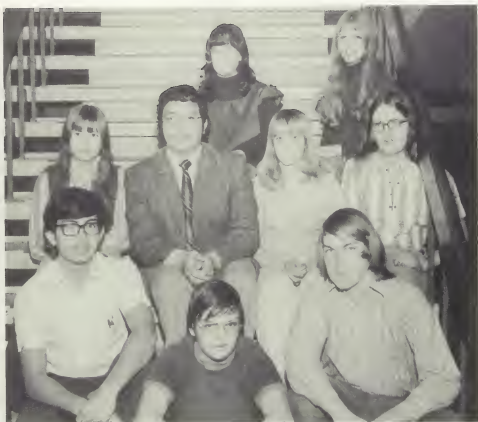

Going on an outing to the Field Museum and inviting guest speakers to discuss special problems of today involved the History Club.

To give little orphanage children something to play with, the Home Ec Club made cuddly stuffed animals and delivered them in the spring.

Painted pollution signs and garbage cans and newly planted trees exemplified some of the work of the Ecology Club. Members joined with the Chemistry Club to create a fenced-in nature center on the school grounds. Calumet breweries donated "Pitch In" signs for teachers to place on the waste baskets or bulletin boards in their rooms.

Gloomy background sets mood for 'Dracula'

Blood red lighting and green mist floating over a dark set provided an eerie atmosphere for "Dracula," the winter production. Stage crew stayed busy backstage for months before the play, designing and constructing all props and scenery. Working behind the scenes at plays, pep rallies and assemblies the theatre production staff prepared various backdrops and made lighting adjustments. Using imagination, members painted sets and refashioned used costumes during their spare time. Actors, wanting to be at their very best, repeated their lines over and over, knowing they would have only two chances to present any given play to the public.

Student interest in current musical trends brought about the formation of the folk club. A diversified weekly format, including unpredictable jam sessions, helped to keep meeting attendance good. Club members discussed some current aspect of music and continued on with guitar lessons. After receiving sheet music beginning guitar pickers learned from the advanced while the advanced guitarists taught each other different styles. Music lovers grooved to John Denver's songs at a spring concert in Chicago, open to all club participants.

Allowing pupils enrolled in an art class to develop their artistic talents became the purpose of the art club. Members could stay after school on designated days and work on chosen projects or catch up on an overdue class assignment.

Electronics Club purchases television camera

Money-making projects which helped the Electronics, Photo and Audio-Visual Clubs also benefited teachers and students this year.

Selling candy in order to purchase a television camera involved the Electronics Club. Permitting teachers to borrow the machine helped make their classes a little more interesting.

Passport pictures taken by the Photo Club added a few extra dollars to their treasury. Anyone in the school could have his picture taken for a general fee. The club sold glitter plaques of "smiles", reindeer, and santa's during the Christmas season and again in the spring months.

Continuing club activities throughout school hours, Audio-Visual members operated projectors for teachers and recorded assemblies. Sponsoring several bakesales and a car wash, the club saved enough money for new stereo equipment which they used during all recordings of choral concerts. Members also toured the WGN broadcasting television station to learn about video equipment. The club handled all P.A. systems during pep assemblies held in the gym and during football and basketball games. They ran the projector for the Association Film Festival and also for the travelogue that Mr. Ted Bumiller presented concerning Japan.

Band keeps viewers' interest with marches

"Introducing the Morton Senior High School Marching Governor Band," became a familiar announcement to football fans as they awaited the start of half-time activities. Marching onto the field, band members entertained the crowd to such songs as "Joy" and "Something." The band also displayed its talent at the annual Christmas parade. As the air swelled with Yuletide melodies the spirit of the season filled many bundled-up spectators.

With hopes that band members' dreams for new uniforms could become a reality, interested band parents opened a stand during football games. Selling of Morton pennants and pins helped raise some of the needed funds for purchasing the garments.

Swinging to modern jazz tunes, stage band provided entertainment at the Homecoming assembly. Through practice it developed the proper techniques to play such contemporary songs as "Shaft."

Despite the illness of Mrs. Kolar, individual orchestra members brought home a first and third division at the Gary Lew Wallace contest.

Vocalists plan activity filled Christmas season

Made up of some of the finest voices in Morton, Concert Choir participated in various school as well as outside affairs. Filling their Christmas with activities, the vocalists brought back that old time caroling by serenading neighborhood homes. Cold fingers happily accepted steaming hot chocolate, cookies and a warm "Merry Christmas" in appreciation for the singers thoughtfulness. A Christmas assembly, one of the choir's focal points, entertained the entire school. With the help of props and seasonal songs to promote Yuletide cheer the Girls Ensemble sang a humorous song, "Fruitcake." Depicting the process of making this traditional dessert, a simple dance routine added to the song.

Screams of shock turned attention toward the freak show sponsored by Concert Choir at the junior class carnival. Standing on a platform, a frog swallower and goldfish eater, the main attraction, enticed the curious to enter the exhibition.

Performers of contemporary music consisting of popular folk and rock, the Wayfarers sang for civic groups, organizations and frequently at banquets with guitar accompaniment. The ability to read notes aided them in their study of music.

Paying for officials needed to ref their games and suppling after-game refreshments posed a problem for the girls' teams. To help out, GAA members and officers sold photo wallets and numbered jerseys. From the money GAA awards and refreshments on Mother-Daughter night were also purchased.

GAA officers changed the wording of the Constitution of their club. One of the clauses specified that qualified members could wear only cardigan sweaters to represent their organization. The officers rewrote the clause permitting the girls to also wear pullover and V-neck sweaters in red or white.

Booster Club sponsored bus trips to football and basketball games to encourage student support for the teams. Members sold ribbons for the Tech game during the football season and for the sectional game against Clark on February 21.

Holding sign paintings at their homes kept Booster Club publicity chairmen busy. Here pupils gathered to create posters to boost the team.

M-Club members assisted at basketball games by helping keep the floor clean during half-time. Qualification for membership in M-Club requires the boys to letter in their particular sport by participating a specific number of hours. The boys formed a cheering block at sectionals.

Cheerleaders organize opening pep session

PROPER EXECUTION becomes important in the minds of senior Paula Luketic and junior Janice Wimmer as they practice to perfect a new cheerleading formation.

Throughout the year the Morton cheerleaders instituted various activities to arouse school spirit. Raising money for new uniforms and involving students in the school became the goal.

To back the team the cheerleaders presented a pep session in preparation for the upcoming football-o-rama during the summer. After the rally the girls held a dance featuring "CS and S".

At the beginning of the year varsity squad members performed at the freshmen orientation. During the fall newly selected frosh performed with B-team at pep sessions and at all games.

Being drenched with water and covered with suds did not seem to bother the cheerleaders as they worked at their car wash to help buy uniforms and accessories. Other money making projects which assisted in raising additional funds were bake sales sponsored at three different locations.

With enough money obtained, varsity squad members attended cheerleading camp at Vincennes University. In daily competition the five varsity girls won several ribbons and the spirit stick for their "outstanding amount of enthusiasm."

Daily the cheerleaders devoted seventh hour to practicing cheers and acrobatic aerials under the supervision of sponsor Mrs. Skafish.

Girls audition to gain membership on squad

Tension mounted as each group of girls went in front of the judges to do a familiar routine for the last time. Smiling faces of 24 girls showed their happiness at being chosen for the pom-pom squad — staying after school and practicing for three weeks had paid off. During spring meetings the corps and twirlers elected officers and chose a new sponsor, Miss Carol Nichols. The squad also purchased new pom-poms for the football season.

Despite the summer's sweltering heat pom-pom girls and twirlers could be seen practicing pre-game routines and marching formations. Once school started they gladly greeted first hour practices which enabled the corps, twirlers and band to work together daily on the football field. Trying to find their position in a certain formation and remembering a routine learned only the day before were two of the problems which they had to face.

Cheering fans welcomed the band, pom-pom girls and twirlers onto the field for the home football games. They entertained the crowd with routines during pre-game and half-time activities.

Pom-pom girls and twirlers also participated with the band in several parades during the year and at designated home basketball games.

Sports

Achieving any goal requires individual and teamwork effort. Winning a relay or scoring a touch-down takes not only the one person's ability who completed this tactic but also the talents of those who got him there. No game can be won without the combined skills of all involved in it. Each position, each job done by participants plays an important part in reaching that ultimate glory. Every athlete, even when cooperating with his team, stands alone in sports.

Gridmen win tops off homecoming agenda

Hopeful of winning their third consecutive Lake Shore Conference title, the Governor gridmen faced Andrean in the season opener. However, despite the shouts of encouragement from the stands, Morton went down in defeat, 16-0, temporarily dampening their once optimistic outlook.

Renewed confidence and the fans' continuing support gave the squad's morale a shot in the arm as quarterback Mark Peters directed the balanced attack against Clark, resulting in the first of an eight game winning streak for the Gov's.

With their hopes restored, the gridmen could not be stopped. First came a victory over Tech, followed a week later by one against ECW. Neither the Rough Riders nor the Warriors proved to be an obstacle. Both games ended in shutouts.

Holding a shining 4-0 conference record coming into the Homecoming game, the Governors, to the delight of the queen, her court, and the crowd, shut-out the Gavit Gladiators. This win set up the conference title game two weeks later.

For the second consecutive season Hammond High faced Morton in the playoffs for the conference crown, and once again HHS failed to score. Led by the running of Mike Shabaz, who gained 126-yards and scored two touchdowns, Morton won easily. This victory enabled the Govs to participate in the Northern Indiana Conference playoffs against thirteenth-ranked Mishawaka.

Unable to "get it together" against Mishawaka, the Governors fell, but not before obtaining their third straight conference title.

B-team accomplishes third triumphant season

PROSPECTIVE PLAYERS for next year's varsity squad ponder thoughts expressed by varsity Coach Maurey Zlotnik as he prepares them mentally for the 1973 season.

Ending a season for the third consecutive year as an undefeated squad, B-team gridmen prohibited opposing rivals to attain more than eight points. Bishop Noll Warriors proved tough, but the Governors managed to defeat them by a narrow margin. Gavit also fell to MHS with the team shutting them out for the third straight year.

Saturday mornings the team trotted out to the field, some wide awake and ready for action, others yawned, perhaps wishing that they were back in bed. Above them the sun peered through the clouds and reflected a near-empty set of bleachers. However, the games went on as the team put to use new formations practiced during the week.

Participating in their first year of high school football, many frosh team members developed the pre-game jitters. Despite this, confidence overwhelmed emotions as they packed the season with shutouts over Tech, Bishop Noll, ECR and Whiting. Three cross-town rivals, Clark, Gavit, and HHS tilted the scale by blanking the Govs.

Ending with a balanced 5-5 season record, the Governor racketmen began with a match against Merrillville. Although inexperienced, freshmen intermingled with experienced players to develop the tennis team. Members exerted themselves to win and perform a good show for the spectators.

Viewers eyes paraded back and forth with hypnotic tempo as the ball soared from court to court . . . results, the Govs shut out the Pirates.

Following this victorious match came a period of defeat for the racketmen as they lost to Highland, Griffith and Hammond High. When E.C. Roosevelt came along the team combined their individual strategy to overcome the Rough Riders.

Practicing certain techniques for the last time before the game, a few Governor racketmen approached the court and began to concentrate on a stroke that gave them trouble or one they considered using as an unexpected attack on their opposing player. Some looked out of the corner of their eye, perhaps searching for something rare in the sport of tennis . . . a group of Governor supporters. However, no one appeared but the coach, team members, the opposing squad and a couple of people who happened to be walking by the court at the time.

As they strove for a team victory many members of the squad tried to improve their individual methods in order to earn a letter.

Govs subdue Brickies through extra period

Insufficient height proved to be a thorn in the Governors' side through the 1972-73 basketball season as they racked up a 9-12 slate.

Cold shooting in the first half of the game against Highland forced the cagers to play catch-up ball in the second. Fighting back, the Govs came within two points as the buzzer sounded.

Retaliating, the roundballers took back to back victories from Lake Central and Griffith. Up by 13 at the close of the game, the Govs nailed down their third victory by topping Calumet.

Coming off a four game losing streak the cagers entered the Holiday Tourney at Munster. Beating Highland in the opener paved the way to finals. Up against an aroused home crowd and the Mustang team, MHS Roundballers faced Munster in its own tourney. Taking an early lead the Governors held strong to bring home the championship trophy.

Out of the tourney the cagers surpassed Valparaiso, Gavitt and Hobart to build up a string of five consecutive wins with the latter two victories coming in overtime periods.

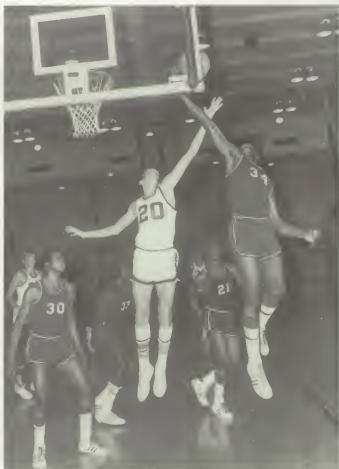

Entering sectionals with the intention of a Clark upset, MHS played a slow-down offense the first half and led by three. Failing to keep the edge the Govs fell victim to the Pioneers.

Starting off right, B-team cagers surpassed Highland in the opener. Holding the pace, they also topped Lake Central for a 2-0 slate.

Constantly switching the lineup and the bringing up of freshmen failed to produce a winning combination as the Gavs fell into a slump. Progressively improving, the B-teamers upset the Hobart Brickies for their final season win.

Matmen place fourth in conference contest

As the conference contest rolled around the Morton grapplers applied their abilities on the mat to achieve a fourth place standing.

Working with skillful techniques which they acquired through season matches, the matmen performed for an audience of tense individuals. Some spectators sat biting their nails while concentrating on the next move, others uncontrollably shouted frantic chants of encouragement. The wrestlers responded by pressing on to reach their goal despite physical and mental strain. Although many felt the sting of defeat, words of reassurance from teammates made them feel they did their best.

Inspired by a victorious match over the Whiting Oilers, the Gavs contemplated a successful season. However, in their second outing against the Gavit Gladiators the grapplers failed to obtain sufficient points, thereby facing defeat. Experiencing the ups and downs of wrestling the Gavs climaxed the season with a grand finale against Andrean when they chalked up a victorious 47-8 score.

Qualifying for state competition, senior varsity grapplers Jay Gollner and Alex Lopez represented the Governors at the finals in Indianapolis. Both returned home with fourth place awards.

B-team wrestlers gain many new techniques

Trying to follow in the footsteps of the varsity wrestlers, B-team spent many hours after school learning and perfecting new holds and take-downs. Under the watchful eyes of Coach Fred Kepler many of these matmen will achieve their dream of going on to the varsity team next year.

At first it became apparent that the time spent practicing helped to improve their skills when the grapplers rolled over Whiting in its first match. But with only a two point victory over Gavit it looked like more training would be needed. Getting back to the victorious side was not hard for them as they went on to win four consecutive matches. The only blemish in the season record of 9-1 came on a three point loss to Tech. Finishing out the season with wins over Portage and Clark, they looked ahead, thinking of the upcoming year.

As the Morton swimmers climbed to the starting blocks the timerettes prepared themselves for the beginning of the meet. With the firing of the official's gun, spectators, consisting of family and friends, watched the Governor swimmers as they splashed on to victory. This was the way it went for the Morton tankmen in eight out of their ten swimming meets which took place this year.

Gov swimmers opened the season with three wins before being stopped by the Merrillville Pirates. Following a five point win over Lowell, the tankmen defeated Portage by a margin of one.

Facing defeat only two more times during the remainder of their schedule the Gavs finished the season triumphantly with victories over the Gavit Gladiators and the Hammond High Wildcats.

Cinderfellas strive for sectional qualification

Unexpected chilly winds and near freezing temperatures hit the outside of the Governors' home, forcing Coach Nick Luketic's trackmen to go about their daily practice inside the gym.

Starting each session with calisthenics, squad members warmed up before splitting into their specialties. Distance men paced around the indoor track as sprinters set up starting blocks in the hall outside the gym. Off to one side hurdlers prepared themselves for trial runs at both high and low positions. In the far corner with equipment in hand, pole vaulters and high jumpers worked on their approach to the bar. Shotputters pushed themselves for form as well as distance. To participate in sectional competition team members pressed themselves for a maximum effort in their individual skills.

Bishop Noll's meet found the MHS trackmen taking a second place in the first of its seasonal meets before sectionals. Steady performance by the Gavs produced one third, two seconds and a first in their following triangular meets.

Rounding out their season play with several relays and the city meet, Governor trackmen nabbed a fifth place position in all of these events.

Sectionals found 17 Governors qualifying in different events from the shot-put to the two mile run. Jim Mathews, a 1972 graduate, pushed on to regional competition in the 440-yd. dash.

EXERTING STRENGTH, junior D. Long attempts to improve the length of his jump while engaged in competition.

STRENUOUS WORK enables senior Joe Sknerski to advance ahead of an opponent as he races to hand his baton to a fellow teammate, capturing a MHS victory.

BACK ROW: Tom Ostoich, Terry Fouts, Glenn Brennan, Brian Vana and Coach F. Kepler. They often filled in for varsity.

Trackmen set new records, finish season 8-3

As the gun signaling the start of the season sounded the B-team cindermen sprinted forward. Finishing with a 8-3 tally, the Gavs gained new records in relay and hurdling divisions.

By taking top honors in their first triangular meet of the season with Crown Point and Bishop Noll, the Gavs appeared to be on the right track. Success continued to ride with the team through the city meet, where they again claimed top ratings. However, in the Lake Shore Conference and the City Frosh-Soph contests, with only Morton's freshmen participating against underclassmen from other schools in the area, they achieved fourth place.

Defeating E.C. Washington and E.C. Roosevelt enabled the Governors to capture two more first place awards. Meeting with Gavitt and Whiting to match skills, the cindermen concluded this 3-team contest by nabbing a second place rating.

Summer workouts improve personal stamina

Sweat covered the faces of many Morton thinlies as the blazing sun followed them through every step of their summer workouts. However, it did not stop the Governors as they strove to prepare themselves for the Cross Country meets which would soon be underway. Practice techniques varied. Some trackmen could be seen running around Hessville Park while others preferred to change the practice into an excursion by jogging to nearby cities.

Dividing the season's tally into half, the team completed a 5-5 record. Their season opened with a victory over the Merrillville Pirates. During the remaining meets the Govs' scoring bounced back and forth with defeat as well as victory. In their outing against the Andean 49ers the Morton trackmen ended the last match with the same score as they had on their season's opener.

Kickers attain city, conference championship

Terminating their season by capturing the city and conference championships, the Morton soccermen marked up a 7-2 record. They started off by outscoring Tech by a leeway of 6 points.

As the Hammond High game opened opponents sat restlessly on opposite benches unaware of the oncoming event. During the second half the Wildcats scored one goal, then threatened with another. The Governors jumped out in front by one point. Disappointed MHS fans exhibited depressing expressions as Hammond High attained another goal. However, the outcome underwent reversal. Time had run out and the goal could not be tallied. Morton Governors had gained another victory.

After upsetting Clark the kickers prepared themselves for their following games against Gavit and Tech. The Gavs blanked both teams.

Playoffs eventually came around with MHS again facing the Tigers. Concentration dominated the minds of all players as each awaited for the opportune moment to send the ball closer to his team's goal. At the end of the game hot and sweaty MHS players quietly began to take off their jerseys, reflecting the agony of losing by one point.

ALL IN STRIDE, junior Gary Kolodziej readies to "foot" the ball down field, possibly setting up a Governor score.

HEADING THE BALL during warm-ups sharpens one of the important skills used by halfback Rich Chamberlain.

Squad loses to Bloomington in playoff finale

AWAITING THE BALL, senior Steve LaPosa stretches in vain to make the play despite an errant throw.

Tension dominated the atmosphere as the game got underway. Many individuals never dreamed that this 1972 MHS team would go the farthest in Governor history, but now they faced Bloomington for the Indiana state baseball title. At the top of the second inning the scoreboard reflected the evenness of competition with a 3-3 score, which remained until the sixth inning. Taking advantage of errors, Bloomington scored, putting them in the lead by two runs. A Governor rally at the top of the seventh inning produced a run. Failing to score again, the diamondmen fell short at the conclusion of the game. It was over . . . Bloomington 5, Morton 4.

This climaxed the season that started off with a 5-1 win over T.F. South. Walking and traveling by cars, buses and bicycles, supporters filled the bleachers to back the Gavs with cowbells and horns. In 28 games the team lost to Bishop Noll and Tech and twice to Calumet and E.C. Washington.

Sectional action arrived with the diamondmen "getting back" at E.C. Washington by defeating them, thus moving the Gavs on to the Regionals. Permitting only two runs, the stickmen won another title by beating Benton Central and Bishop Noll.

Three became the magic number in scoring for the squad as they captured the semi-state baseball crown by beating Elkart and LaPorte.

BASEBALL TEAM— FRONT ROW: Ass't. Coach G. Janclich, S. LaPosa, J. Kiraly, M. Peters, T. Ramlan, J. Smith, M. Ramlan, J. Williamson. BACK ROW: Coach J. Georgas, K. Wilson, D.

Johnson, J. Ryckman, P. Hudson, E. Crawford, B. Smith, K. Holmes, E. Crawford, L. Eaton, Mgrs. R. Lord, P. Williams. Adding to a new field the Gavs sported new uniforms.

When thinking of Morton's sports activities one should not only include the male involvement since sports-minded girls participated on female volleyball and basketball teams.

Anxiety and tension developed as the Morton volleyball team prepared for their first opening dual match against Hammond High and Highland. Proper execution of spikes, set-ups and serves assured them of a win in both contests.

Their next outing brought the girls up against Portage and Gavit. With Portage defeated, the Gavs were warmed up for their next game with the Gladiators. But their efforts soon proved unsuccessful as the girls went down in defeat.

Showing an improvement over last year's tally, the basketball squad lost only two games this season compared to the previous six defeats.

Since Gavit held the championship for many years, the squad not only strived for a team win but also for personal satisfaction. To the Gavs' disappointment Gavit took the victory.

Again the squad met defeat as Portage downed them by two. However, this was their last loss as the girls captured all remaining games.

WITH DEFENSE CLOSING IN Freshman Kathy Hojnacki attempts to drive towards the basket as teammate Eva Del Toro comes to her aid in order to prevent a turnover.

MAKING USE OF A SET UP, junior Lynda Pariso attempts a back-handed bump in hopes of returning the ball.

Individuals

Through the association with friends some students discover the best way to establish their individualism. Only then can they truly express their feelings and display their personality. In a classroom some might become timid, afraid to reveal inner thoughts for fear of being suppressed or ridiculed. While helping with group projects others might fear that their ideas may be rejected. Each and every person is special, but it is usually friends who appreciate each other more as individuals.

Kite repairs made by John Longawa prove to Chris that a big brother can also take time out to be a pal.

SEEKING INFORMATION concerning Ball State University, senior Audrey Lessie looks through college material made available to students in the personnel office.

Class officers prepare pupils for graduation

As graduation approached seniors and counselors held class meetings to discuss registration and scholarships for various colleges. Several executive board meetings also were held to choose caps and gowns and announcements. Breaking away from the usual white, students decided to order beige announcements with brown lettering instead.

Few seniors participated in the signing or wearing of cords, but those who did kept up the custom of obtaining signatures. Outfits consisted of brown sweaters with cream skirts or culottes for the girls while the boys wore slacks. Many class members eagerly cooperated during the sectional tournament and won the "spirit stick."

Senior Week, exhibited throughout the halls of Morton from February 19-23, allowed prospective graduates to dress according to the style of the day. Dress-up day, Cords day, Indian day, Class Color day, and Occupation day challenged the senior class to think of original attire to wear.

Granting early dismissals for students with only a few classes provided them with sufficient time to earn money through part-time jobs.

Interested seniors took part in a five day trip to Boston to celebrate the "Bi-Centennial of the Boston Tea Party." Many visited the historical sites where the American Revolution began.

WORKING PART-TIME after attending classes provides senior Kevin Dugan with an opportunity to gain experience needed for the future employment.

EXTRA STUDYING enables Charlene Rogala to finish required courses in the morning and attend college classes during her free afternoons.

MANY DECISIONS will soon be made by seniors with the approach of graduation. Some of them will include marriage responsibilities.

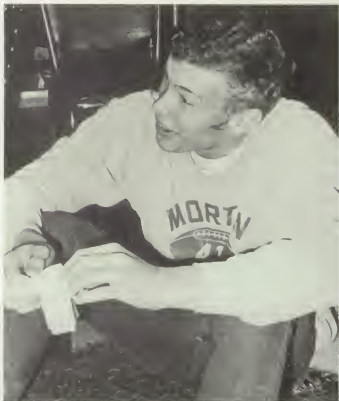

Sponsors help juniors with various activities

Despite numb hands and cold noses involved juniors kept on working to complete this year's 1972 homecoming float. However, for some that night proved disappointing as they watched with helpless eyes their "friendly looking" green dragon burst into flames. All effort put into its form and construction vanished as the smoke climbed upward.

Both sponsors and students dressed uncoordinately at the juniors' "Clash Day". Males donned plaid shirts and striped pants while the girls came wearing unmatched socks and shoes along with rolled-up jeans to complete their ensembles.

Freak shows, pie-eating contests and assorted games highlighted the Class of '74's first carnival in the school cafeteria. To join in the excitement children of various ages came. Clubs purchased booths for ten dollars and all profits went to them. A percentage of the juniors' money went towards decorations for the annual prom.

Various committees started early to make preparations for the prom. Many different types of art work, purchased by the junior executive board and working class members, set the Parisienne theme with its sidewalk cafes and mural scenes.

LATE NIGHT WORKER Bob Mitrowka gets ready to pump gas into an awaiting car that is in need of service.

Officers join together to discuss decorations

In an attempt to raise money the sophomore class sponsored a Christmas dance. Featuring "Bull Run," the event gave students a chance to get together with friends before vacation. Class officers, along with sponsors and other sophomores, worked making decorations for the gala affair.

With the arrival of the basketball season, the class of '75 held sign paintings at different homes. Getting together for an evening of fun, sophomores created an assortment of signs. An occasional slip of a brush caused many painted faces.

Individuality among the class members became apparent as sophs purchased their class rings. With a variety of styles and colors to choose from, each student spent considerable time making his choice from school or an area jeweller.

Collecting newspapers occupied a number of sophomores time as the class conducted a paper drive. Volunteer drivers, with cars and trucks, met at school and drove to designated businesses and students' homes to pick up the bundles.

AFTER SCHOOL PRACTICES allow soph class Vice-President Brett Luketic to perfect his basketball skills.

WALKING AMONG LEAVES, sophomore class Secretary Diane Horodnik abandons her books and ignores the cold to be outdoors.

LENS IN FOCUS, sophomore class President Kevin Clyne readies the camera to take a picture outdoors. As an extra-curricular job he spends time photographing students and teachers for the Top Hat and Mortonite staffs. "Flash" enjoys his work and uses sunny days to his advantage for shooting outdoor publication pictures.

WORKING TOGETHER in the back of a truck, an enthusiastic group of sophs join in gathering old newspapers.

VARIOUS STYLES OF CLASS RINGS draw the attention of sophomores T. Williamson and P. Staggs as they examine rings before placing an order.

WITH MUCH CONCENTRATION, class of '75 students use their imagination to create a spirit poster.

TAKES TWO TO TIE discovers Linda Harris as she seeks the help of Anita Harris in gathering newspapers.

EARLY TO SCHOOL, sophomores K. Alexander, T. Daigle, L. Poole, C. Goldsmith and D. Michalak attend a 7:30 a.m. class meeting.

Meetings allow frosh to voice many ideas

After school bi-weekly meetings enabled freshmen to work along with sponsors and representatives. In November the frosh held a "successful" button sale. In colors of red and gray they pictured Snoopy, the famous Peanuts character, with the phrase "Happiness is the Class of '76."

Frosh prepared for their roller skating party by having sign-ups in the cafeteria commons. Students who attended the activity were transported by bus. Many upon arrival began skating while other "unfortunate" persons fell before stepping onto the floor. As the night wore on sponsors and chaperones tried their luck. For many once around proved an endless journey which seemed to take hours to complete rather than a few minutes.

Glittered red and pink heart decorations set the mood for the Class of '76 Valentine Dance. "Phoenix Experience" provided the entertainment at Morton for the first time. Since the dance centered around Valentine's Day more fellows seemed to be escorting their girl friends than usual.

TREASURY MONEY tempts freshman sponsors Miss Dobis and Mr. Diamond as they count it before depositing.

152 PAUSING ON THE STAIRS, Frosh Senators Tom Keilman and Laura Mendoza take time to discuss future plans.

TO FINALIZE PLANS for activities frosh officers C. White, D. Crist and F. Vela meet during school.

HOUSEHOLD CHORES do not stop freshman Cathy Bliss from talking with friends on the telephone. Like many others her age she finds seeking a job of employment hard, yet work at home always seems to occupy her time.

AVOIDING THE RUSH of many lunch bound students, freshmen Carol Lovin and Dan Bishop slip out the door.

WITH ROSES IN HER ARMS, elected frosh Connie White and her escort Bret Messenger anxiously await the announcement of this year's 1972 Homecoming queen. Following an election in the homerooms, one boy and girl representative were chosen.

FROSH SPIRIT PINS, in colors of red and gray, helped raise money for the class of '76.

Administration strives to assist pupils' needs

New forms of discipline concerning tardies from homeroom and study halls went into effect second semester this year. Hourly announcements made by Assistant Principal, Mr. Phil Mateja, warned students of their previous tardies. Dean of Students, Mr. Walter Ruff, discontinued checking classrooms to inform the students of their detentions. Instead, he sent admits requiring the students to report to him in the personnel office for this information. Principal, Mr. W. W. Becker, had conferences with the students when special cases arose.

Lessening the work for the counselors, computerized report cards eliminated the sorting and filing of the cards. This method also determined a more definite placement of the academic ranks. For the first time the counselors programmed schedules for the entire year enabling the students to keep the same teacher for both semesters.

With the help of head custodian, Bill Smith, the custodial crew maintained the school area and building throughout the entire year.

Open campus, allowing students to eat lunch in local restaurants, reduced the number of students eating in the cafeteria. A one hour lunch period replaced the original one-half hour period. Not knowing how much food to prepare presented problems for the ladies in the lunchroom.

TAKING TIME OUT from a busy schedule Principal W. Winston Becker pauses for a moment of relaxation.

TO PREPARE SCHEDULES, Assistant Principal Phil Mateja uses student files to check pupils' achievement.

WITH WORK IN MIND Mr. Ruff, Dean of Students, compiles the daily absentee list after homeroom.

SCHOOL BOARD— Dr. D. Cooley, Mr. R. Schrelber, Mr. A. Kuhn, Mr. M. Mason, Dr. A. Kaye and Dr. R. Medcalf.

READY AND WILLING, head custodian Bill Smith does his paper work and awaits maintenance phone calls.

SPECIAL WORK done by Miss Deiner, Mrs. Kruger and Mrs. Davis aid students with specific problems.

Reflections of prosperous businesses in the Woodmar area reveal the support of local residents.

During lunch time and after school hours, students hurried to their favorite "hangout" to satisfy their hunger pains.

Pupils often gathered together at the "golden arch" to relax and associate with friends and enjoy a snack.

Advertising

Traveling along city streets neon signs dazzle students and adults. Each has been planned to entice people into the establishment with the hope that merchandise will be purchased.

Though several businesses may sell the same articles, low prices, fine products and a cheerful atmosphere appeal to different people and so the buyer shops at that chosen store.

The individualism of each shop is as unique as those who go there. That is why businesses must advertise in a special way, to attract as many buyers as they can. The economy of Morton centers on the prosperity of area businesses and owners must try to reach us individually through advertising.

To find better bargains Lou Anne Anderson browses through various stores to make the right purchases .

We have too many good things to offer you to make any up. (They're so good you may think we are making them up.) Read on.

We won't guarantee you anything we can't pay off. (If we guarantee you Hawaii, start waxing your surfboard. You'll need it.)

Everything we guarantee will be put down in writing. In a legal document that you get a copy of. (If you agree to sign for computer training and the Delayed Entry Option, it will all be spelled out in language you can understand.)

We want you to know without a shred of doubt that you'll get everything you signed for. So we'll give you this card. On the front is what you signed for. And on the back is an address to write to in the Pentagon, just in case you didn't get what's on the front.

We think today's Army has a lot to offer you. We'll try to convince you of that. That's our job. But we'll never try to mislead you. That's our job, too.

Your Army Representative.

Dear Governors,

Individual people and their thoughts helped compose our 1972-73 "Top Hat". Without their time and efforts our annual could not be produced. Staffers expressed their feelings towards individualism through our theme, "A Different Drum." Our goal was reached through the help of individuals who not only worked by themselves to strive for better copy and layouts but with co-workers who took an interest in being creative. Without individual people and their work, a school or a yearbook, which is the reflection of the past year, would be an impossibility.

Cordially,
Linda Lelito,
Mary Ann Komar,
Co-editors.

The 1972-73 Top Hat Staff wishes to thank Mrs. Helen Stock, advisor, Mr. Bodie for senior and organization pictures, Mr. Andros for underclass pictures and Harry Dudzik, photographer, who put up with the nagging from the editor when pictures were not always received when promised.

the 1990s, the number of people in the UK who are employed in the public sector has increased by 1.5 million, from 2.5 million in 1980 to 4 million in 1998. The public sector has become a major employer in the UK, and its growth has been a major factor in the overall growth of the economy.

The public sector has also become a major employer of women. In 1980, women made up 40% of the public sector workforce, and by 1998, this had increased to 50%. This increase has been driven by a number of factors, including the growth of the public sector, the increasing participation of women in the workforce, and the increasing demand for public services.

The public sector has also become a major employer of people with disabilities. In 1980, people with disabilities made up 1% of the public sector workforce, and by 1998, this had increased to 3%. This increase has been driven by a number of factors, including the growth of the public sector, the increasing participation of people with disabilities in the workforce, and the increasing demand for public services.

The public sector has also become a major employer of people from ethnic minorities. In 1980, people from ethnic minorities made up 2% of the public sector workforce, and by 1998, this had increased to 5%. This increase has been driven by a number of factors, including the growth of the public sector, the increasing participation of people from ethnic minorities in the workforce, and the increasing demand for public services.

The public sector has also become a major employer of people from the lower social classes. In 1980, people from the lower social classes made up 10% of the public sector workforce, and by 1998, this had increased to 20%. This increase has been driven by a number of factors, including the growth of the public sector, the increasing participation of people from the lower social classes in the workforce, and the increasing demand for public services.

The public sector has also become a major employer of people from the lower income groups. In 1980, people from the lower income groups made up 10% of the public sector workforce, and by 1998, this had increased to 20%. This increase has been driven by a number of factors, including the growth of the public sector, the increasing participation of people from the lower income groups in the workforce, and the increasing demand for public services.

The public sector has also become a major employer of people from the lower education levels. In 1980, people from the lower education levels made up 10% of the public sector workforce, and by 1998, this had increased to 20%. This increase has been driven by a number of factors, including the growth of the public sector, the increasing participation of people from the lower education levels in the workforce, and the increasing demand for public services.

The public sector has also become a major employer of people from the lower health status. In 1980, people from the lower health status made up 10% of the public sector workforce, and by 1998, this had increased to 20%. This increase has been driven by a number of factors, including the growth of the public sector, the increasing participation of people from the lower health status in the workforce, and the increasing demand for public services.
